The wool, after being sorted, scoured, scribbled, carded, slubbed, etc. by machinery, is worked up by the weavers. In 1839, 4238 looms were supposed to be at work in the boro', little cloth being made in the town, or to the N. and E. of it; and upwards of 10,000 were at work in the "district," which extends from 3 to 8 m. round, the weaver being generally a small farmer as well. Mixed, i. e. coloured, cloths, are chiefly made and sold undressed in the market, where they are bought for the finisher. Roman coins have been found at Quarry Hill; and Kirkstall has the fine remains of its old abbey. Besides those above, Addams, Baron, Boyse, Cappe, and Clapham, all divines, — Fawkes the poet, Lodge the engraver, Saxton a geographer, Watkinson, and Bp. Lake (b. 1624) one of the Seven, and once vicar, were natives; as was J. Milner (1744-97), the son of a weaver, — his brother, the Dean, d. 1820. St. M. Magdalene hosp. was found. 1470 by *W. Goring, Esq.; for the others, see CLIFF and SOUTHOVER. Of the norman castle, the only remains are parts of the gate (Edw. III.) and walls, and the double keep, near which St. John's church stands on a small roman camp. The priory, which was the head of its order in England, and covered 32 acres, including a church 150 ft. long, with walls 10 ft. thick, was mostly pulled down 1538 by Thos. Cromwell, except a part called Lord's Place (a seat of the Sackvilles, and afterwards burnt down), with some traces of cloisters, hall, gate, etc., all of which were removed 1845, to make room for the rail. station. In digging for this, on the site of the chapter house, the bones of William and Gundrada, the founders, were discovered, and placed in Southover church. Near it stood St. James's hospital. Parts of the town walls are visible; at Glynd bridge was a roman ford, and coins of Tiberius, etc. have been found; a danish camp is at Mt. Carburn (?). Dr. Mantell first discovered the megalosaurus, plesiosaurus, and other fossil lizards here. Six protestant martyrs were burnt 1556, and 10 in 1557. Abp. Peckham, Sir T. (exclusively, — with 1047 teachers and 12,619 child.), and 208 in union with the National Soc. had 12,978 children, and total grants of 3571*l.* Offenders in '48, 504 (or 490 av. of 5 yrs.) of whom 401 were convicted, 87 were females, 11 under 15 yrs. of age, 137 could not read or write. Following the 14 Sup. Registry districts of '45 (total pop. 356,226 + 4432) the 'births' were 12,365, of whom 5990 were females, 843 or 6·8 per cent. illegit.; 'deaths' 6634 or 1 in 52 — the all-England av. being 46; 'marriages' 2826 (at church 2522) of which 2232 persons or 38·6 per cent. signed with marks. —— The Wolds, a range of chalk and green sand hills 45 m. long by 5 to 8 broad, run from Barton, SSE. past Brocklesby (where the Pelham Pillar —ft. high, is the highest point in the county), Caistor, Louth, to Seamblesby, Spilsby, and Burgh, E. of which range are low marsh lands banked from the sea; a line from Burgh to Tattershall, up the Witham to Bardney, thence S. to Horbling, Bourne, etc., comprising the Parts of Holland and something more, cuts off the Fen land, — a level tract crossed by hundreds of droves (or ditches), and dykes (or canals), once a forest, which for want of a good outfall to the sea was swamped by the river, but is now nearly all drained, and converted into rich pasture, and a fruitful black soil; W. of these is a bed of oolite, as far as the lias hills from Wintringham to Lincoln and Grantham, extending nearly to the Trent, where the new red sandstone begins, which is quarried as gypsum about Epworth in Axholme, the surface of which is a level but well cultivated marsh. Stone is got about Grantham and Sleaford. About 300 hands are employed in rope and cord making, and 270 in the manufacts. of hemp, woollens, carpets (at Louth), lace, linen, silk, besides a few makers of sacking at Owston, Haney, Butterwick, — and tanners elsewhere. Smaller rivers are, the Ancholme, Welland, Bain, Steeping; mineral springs are at Denton, Bourne, Gainsboro'; and some of the larger drains in the SE. are Cardyke (made by the Romans), N. and S. Drove, Hamond Beck, S. Holland drain, etc. By means of embanking, draining, and improved husbandry, fens and heaths have been reclaimed, and such great improvements made in all parts that it stands first in point of cultivation. Soil in the uplands clayey, but in general a sandy loam, enriched by bone manure, fish, rape-seed, and, along the coast and tide rivers, by warping, i. e. deposits of sand and mud; chief crops are turnips (L. Heath, once 40 m. long, is now all turnip land at 20*s.* an acre), wheat (44 bush. per acre), barley, oats, beans, coleseed (in the fens), with hemp, flax, in the low grounds, and woad about Boston; some of the grass lands in summer, will feed 1 bullock and 7 sheep off 2 acres, and large quantities of (linseed) oil-cake are imported for stall feeding; cattle, a large short-horned breed, — stock of sheep, chiefly the large Leicester breed, and reared in the fens, 1,800,000, yielding 6 to 9 lbs. per fleece, or 62,000 packs; good hunters, dray, and saddle horses are bred,— and though since the wolds and heaths have been enclosed, and the fens drained, the business of decoying wild-fowl, and breeding rabbits for their skins, and geese for the quills and feathers, has fallen off, a good deal is still done; most of the estates and farms are small, — the latter held for 7 and 14 yrs.; farmers are intelligent, and the people pretty comfortable; farm buildings middling; in the fens only brackish water is got. The Ermine St., from Casterton near Stamford, goes N. along the hills by Ponton (where the Salt way from Denton villa crosses to Saltfleet, as some say), Ancaster (anct. Causennæ), Lincoln (Lindum, where the Fosse way from Brough crosses to Ludford, etc.), Scampton (where a villa has been found, and Tilbridge Lane, a branch way, turns off to Littleboro', Gainsboro' camp, etc.), Summer Cast. camp, Spittal-on-the-Street, Hibbaldston, and other stations to Winterton (Ad Abum) on the Humber, near to Aukboro' camp; other roman camps at Yarboro', Caistor, S. Ormsby, Honingston, — and british or danish at Barrow, Well, Revesby, Ingoldsby, Fokingham; abbey ruins at Bardney, Barlings (where the rising under Prior Mackerel began 1536), Croyland (with a curious triangular bridge), Kirksted, Louth, Tupholm; priories at Stamford (with a friary, etc.), Sempringham, Thornton, Croxhill, Burwell, Bullington; preceptories (of the K. Templars) at Aslackby, Temple Bruer; a hospital at Spittal, a college at Tattershall; old churches (some of the best being in the Fens), at Lincoln (a cathedral), Stow (anct. Sidnacester, and a bishop's seat), Clee, Louth, and Grantham (with fine steeples), Boston (tower), Gedney, Gt. Ponton, Stamford (which had a university and 4 colleges, Hen. III.'s time), Heckington (a good specimen); castles at Lincoln (with many other remains, as below), Torksey, Moor Tower, Tattershall, Somerton; old houses at Gainsboro' (the old hall), Worlaby (the Bailasis'), Belleau, Pinchbeck. Hen. IV. was a native of Bolingbroke, Will. of Waynflete of Wainfleet, Newton of Woolsthorpe, Sarah duch. of Marlboro' of Burwell, Abp. Whitgift of Grimsby; at Stamford, Wells and his party were routed by Edw. IV.; Dunston Pillar was put up about 1750 as a guide across the waste, now a pattern of farming; and Horncastle has a noted horse-fair. Shakspeare speaks of the "Lincolnshire bagpipe," 1st pt. Hen. Virgin Mary Cathedral or Minster, on a hill, with a treble transept, and visible for many miles round, was found. 1086 by Bp. Remigius, partly burnt 1126, restored in part 1127 by Bp. Alex. de Blois, but chiefly by Bp. Hugh Burgundus 1186, who began the new works which were finished 1324; is mostly early eng., 524 ft. by 250 (through the great transept, the W. one being 174, the E. one 170), and 80 high; with Bp. Alnwick's two W. towers (Edw. III.) 180 ft. high, exclusive of the spires, which stood on them up to 1808, and were 101 ft. more, — and the great tower 300 ft. high, 53 ft. square, by Bps. Hugh and Grossetête, which fell 1244, and was reb. after 1296; the E. end was built 1306, the tabernacle 1380. It includes the rich W. front, improved by Bp. Alnwick, with its pinnacled turrets, large round doorway, having the large window and statues under canopies over it, two other doors, and niches with sculptures over them; Bp. Hugh's early eng. galilee or porch; chapels or chantries, called Edw. I.'s, to memory of Q. Eleanor who died at Hardeby, Bp. Cantelupe's (Edw. III.), with his mon. and Dean Wymbish's, Welbourne's (Edw. III.), Bp. Fleming's with his mon., Bp. Russel's (Hen. VII.), Bp. Longland's (Hen. VIII.), St. Catherine's with the Burghersh (undated) mons.; stalls, carved stone screen, circular font of black porphyry, stained glass (14th cent.), sculptures in the chancel and presbytery, the 'Great Tom,' or bell, weighing above 10,000 lbs., — also brasses of Cath. Swinford and her daughter Joan, and of Card. Repington, with traces of others which were defaced or taken by the Puritans, who made this place a barrack; cloisters 118 ft. by 91, with a roman pavement near it, and Dean Honeywood's library, which has an original Magna Charta (older than the Brit. Museum copy) of 54 lines of norman latin, 17 in. by 17; Bp. Hugh's 10-sided chapter-house 60½ ft. diam. Hen. VIII. took away this bp.'s gold shrine and another of silver, besides 262*l* oz. of gold, and 4825 of silver. —— Among the other antiquities, which exceed those of any town in the kingdom, are remains of the roman station, which extended 1300 ft. by 1200 (where coins of Vespasian, etc., baths, pottery, a pavement 14 ft. under ground, etc., have been found), as the Newport gate (the best roman existing) with part of the wall adjoining, another part 40 ft. long and 16 high, called the Mint wall, near the old palace, — part of an arch in a turret at E. gate, 200 ft. of the conduit in Castle-yard; part of the walls, keep, and gate, of the norman castle (which was 644 yds. round), and Cob's hall tower; Chequer, and two other gates; Lucy (or Lacy?) tower, near St. Giles's ruined chapel; tower near the "priory" (on site of one found. 1148), with a niche in it, — with two others, and Pottergate, in the Close wall; old castle house (Edw. I.), with arms of the see on it; grey friary, b. before 1230, vaulted below and timbered above, and used as a school and mechanics' institute; Bp. Gravesend's deanery b. 1254, with Dean Fleming's gate, — near which is Work's chantry, which was the chancellor's house up to 1321; Vicars' college begun 1299, and once a quadrangle; Bp. Chesney's palace, begun (Hen. II.), and demolished in civil war, including Bp. Alnwick's decorated tower, the shell of Bp. Hugh's hall 75 ft. by 55, and part of the kitchen; old hall near St. Hugh's croft; John of Gaunt's palace, a "goodly house," taken down 1783, except a beautiful oriel window (lately placed in the castle gate), — opposite is his stables (or St. Mary's guild), partly norman of 12th cent. with 2 sides of a quadrangle left; Jew's House near Bull-ring, on Steep hill, late norman and curiously figured, once belonging to Belaset a Jewess, who was hung (Edw. I.) for clipping coin, — now to the chapter; Stone-bow gate across High St. (Rich. II.), with figures of the Virgin and Gabriel; Hospitium or Monk's barn, part of a chapel; conduit near St. Mary's (Hen. VIII.). Much middle age pottery was found 1848, and a comb with a runic advertisement on it — "Thorfatha makes good combs." —— K. Vortimer was buried here 475; Stephen kept Christmas 1044, and Hen. II. 1058; Will. of Scotland did homage (1200) to John, who was here again 1204; Edw. I. (1301) held a parl., which asserted his right to invade Scotland, and (1305) confirmed Magna Charta; also parls. of Edw. II. 1316-7, and of Edw. III. 1327; Rich. II. visited it 1386; Hen. VI. 1446; Hen. VII. 1485, after Bosworth field; Hen. VIII. 1541; Ch. I. 1642; and the Archæological Institute 1848. An earthquake was felt 1185, and several Jews were hung 1255, on the old charge of crucifying a child. Disney, Partridge, and Reyner, divines, — Willis the physician, and Hilton the painter (1778-1831), were natives; it is the militia head qrs., gives title of earl to Duke of Newcastle, and publishes the 'L. Standard' newspaper. The river having been deepened, 80-ton vessels can now come up; rails. go to Gt. Grimsby, Sheffield, Boston, Nottingham, Peterborough, etc. Burton Ha., Lord Monson; Sudbrook, R. Ellison Esq.; Canwick, Col. Sibthorp, M. P.; Doddington, Col. Jarvis; Hackthorne, R. Cracroft, Esq.; Blankney, C. Chaplin, Esq.; Thirlby, Sir E. F. Bromhead, Bt.; and there are good views from Canwick Hill, Greetwell Fields, and Monks' Lane (near an old cell).

It was the roman Augusta and Londinium, the capital of the Trinobantes, destroyed by Boadicea A. D. 61, reb. and walled round by Constantine's general Theodosius about 306; was Lundaine of the Britons, who under Ambrosius took it 497 from Hengist; made the seat of a diocese about 600 (or 610), when Ethelbert, 1st christian king of Kent, founded St. Paul's (or the East-minster) on site of Diana's temple, — his nephew Sebert, 1st christ. king of the East-Saxons (or Essex — which kingdom took in London and Middle-sex) founding the West-minster 604; ravaged by plague 644; burnt 798 and 801; wasted 839, 851 by the Danes, who held it 872, and gave it up 884 to Alfred, who calls it Lundenceaster (others call it Lunddenbyrig, Lunddenburh, Lundewic, Lundene, Lundune, Lundone, etc.), and made it the capital about 893; appointed a mint town by Athelstane 925; burnt 982, taken by Sweyne the Dane 1013; was the place where the great council met, 1041, to choose the Confessor, who chartered it and styles it "Tray novant," — but it was not noticed in 'Domesdy.' of the Conqueror's time, who built the Tower; burnt 1077, '86 (with St. Paul's, etc.), and '92, and again 1136, by a fire which went from London stone to Aldgate, and destroyed W. Rufus's wooden bridge; was the place of Hen. I.'s coronation 1100, and Rich. I.'s 1189 (when many Jews were massacred), and the first mayor Hen. Fitz Alwin was appointed 1190; garrisoned against John by the barons, who gave up the Tower to Lewis the Dauphin; wasted 1349 by plague, which carried off 50,000; sent 4 members to parl. 1355, received 1359 the Black Prince and his prisoner Jno. of France, who with Edw. III., Dav. of Scotland, the king of Cyprus, etc. were entertained by lord may. Picard 1363; visited by plague 1369; overrun by Wat Tyler 1380, whom lord may. Walworth killed in the presence of Rich. II., who thereupon granted the present coat of arms; received the grecian emperor Palæologus 1400; was ravaged by plague 1407 (30,000 died); partly lit by lanterns 1416, overrun by Jack Cade's mob 1450; ravaged by plague 1499-1500 (30,000 died), and 1513; visited by Ch. V. 1522, who staid at Blackfriars, where a parl. was held 1524; ravaged by plague 1525 and '48; was "very foul and full of pits and sloughs" 1532, — the houses being mostly of "sticks and dirt" (the first brick ones about 1470, when bricks were made in Moorfields to repair the wall, etc.); was but "slenderly provided with ships" Edw. VI.'s time, when 4 of 120 tons belonged to the port; ravaged by plague 1564 (20,000 died) and '74, and '82 (7000 died), and '92 (11,000 died); visited by Eliz. 1570 (to open the exchange), and 1588 (after the Armada), — about which time it did not stretch beyond the walls, new buildings being prohibited within 3 m. of the gates, while St. Martin, and St. Giles in the Fields, Lincoln's Inn Fields, Bunhill Fields, Moor-fields, Goodman's-fields, Spital-fields, the Haymarket, and Holborn and Islington vils. were in the "country," the Strand was an open walk by the river from Ludgate to Charing vil., and the Russian ambassador hunted in 'Marybone;' visited by Jas. I. 1603 (when the plague carried off 30,000), and '7, and assisted in the planting of Londonderry 1609-19; supplied with water by Myddelton's New River 1613-20, and partly paved with flags instead of pebbles 1616; ravaged by plague '25 (35,000 died), and '36 (11,000 died); first used coal 1640; swore to the solemn league and covenant 1643, — and entertained the Houses of Parl. 1644-5; was visited by Cromwell 1651, who was feasted at Guildhall, — and by Ch. II. 1660, when it was first supplied with tea by the E. India Comp.; ravaged by the great plague (began at Drury Lane) Dec. 1664 to Feb. 1666, when 100,000 were carried off (in Sept. '65, 12,000 died in one week, and 4000 in one night); almost destroyed by the Great Fire 2-6 Sept. 1666, which began at Pudding Lane (close to the Monument site) and ended at Pye Corner near Holborn br., burnt above 10 millions (?) worth of property over 436 acres, or more than 3-4ths of the City in the walls, including 400 streets (as Aldersgate, Coleman, Basinghall, Leadenhall Sts., Mincing Lane, Tower Dock, etc.), 13,200 out of 65,000 houses, with St. Paul's cath., 85 churches and chapels, 52 city halls, 4 gates, Gresham's Exchange, Guildhall, etc.; restored by Wren 1670-1710, who built St. Paul's, the Monument, Bow ch., etc.; visited by Ch. II. 1671-6, etc.; had the first penny post 1680, estab. by Murray and Dockeray; was settled (Spitalfields, etc.) by the French protestant refugees 1685-7; visited by Jas. II. 1687, and 1689 by Will. III. and Mary, in whose reign it had (with Westmr.) 900 hackney coaches and 200 sedan chairs (the first coach 1564); visited by Q. Anne 1702 (when it had 560 ships of 85,000 tons),—by Geo. I. 1714, and Geo. II. 1727; was first lit with glass lamps 1736 (partly in 1694); had but one bridge till Westmr. Br. was built 1739, — and till 1762 and later, every shop hung out its sign; was visited by Geo. III. 1761, again in '89 (to return thanks, at St. Paul's, on his recovery), and '97 (on account of Howe's, St. Vincent's, and Duncan's victories); overrun 1780 by Lord G. Gordon's mob, who burnt Newgate, etc.; first lit with gas 1807 (in Pall Mall and Bishopsgate), — in which year the river was frozen over (and again in 1814); visited by Louis XVIII., Emp. Alexander, King of Prussia, etc. 1814, when the Pr. Regent returned thanks for the Peace; saw the 1st steamer on the Thames 1816; visited by Q. Caroline 1820; suffered from the bubble schemes of 1824-5 (when Pole's bank paid away 1½ million in one week); ravaged by cholera 1832, visited by Q. Victoria 1837; suffered from the railway mania of 1845, when up to Nov., 620 new schemes to cost 563 millions were registered, — and again by cholera 1849.

The estimated pop. (see Mr. B. Smith, in Medical Jour. of Jan. 1851) at the end of 1849, was 2,206,076 (1,173,446 being females), of whom there died in '50, 48,579 (27,109 in the 3rd or cholera quarter), while the births were 75,137, giving an increase for that year of 26,738. According to returns of 1831-5, out of every 100,000 persons (up to WHITECH. as above), 625 die of infantile diseases, 83 small-pox, 88 measles, 53 scarlet fever, 111 'fever,' 131 surfeit and cholera (the epidemic of '31), 307 'inflammation,' 136 asthma, 567 consumption, 138 dropsy, 59 apoplexy and suddenly, 357 old age and bedridden, 57 casualties. About 7 per cent. die of the sick in hospitals. In the whole pop. of those who die annually, 8½ per cent. die under 5 yrs. of age (or 32 per cent. of the total births), 8 per cent. from 5 to 25, 2½ per cent. from 25 to 65, 23½ per cent. from 65 upwards, — the total average for all ages being 24. (See Registries.)

Houses, up to WOOLWICH as above, 250,908 (in the City 16,080), besides 10,792 empty, and 3833 building,—mostly of brick, 3 to 5 stories high, and forming about 65 squares, 9000 streets (7000 in 1785), with upwards of [what follows is confined to the metropolitan borough limits] "300 churches and episcop. chapels, 370 dissenting and 22 foreign chapels, 250 public and 1500 private schools, 150 hospitals, 156 almshouses, and 205 other institutions, 550 public offices, 14 prisons, 22 theatres, 24 markets, 10,000 private houses, 77,000 houses of trade, etc., 4400 public houses, 330 hotels, 470 beer shops, 960 wine and spirit shops." The houses in the City make 50 m. of streets, etc., requiring 48 m. of sewers, of which the 47 m. completed would, if laid side by side, be only 120 ft. apart; but about 2-3rds of the houses are still undrained, except by cess-pools and gutters. The sewers have 11 outlets to the river (with many small ones, regularly numbered up to above Chelsea), with falls chiefly from 1 in 240 to 1 in 24 (the least being 1 in 960, the greatest 1 in 14). A general plan of sewerage proposed by the Metrop. Commissioners of Sewers, to cost above 1 million, includes two main sewers of about 24 m. for the N. and S. sides of London, which would leave the river free, and empty below Blackwall and Woolwich. In the seven metropol. boroughs, the 10*l.* houses are 253,736, and the assessed taxes 1,252,368*l.* Gresham, Moorgate, King William streets, are new, with houses in stucco or plaster, of a superior style; New Farringdon or Victoria St., to go through Clerkenwell to Islington, and another from Cannon St. to St. Paul's, are making; the Haberdashers' Comp. are building on Shepherdess fields; and new towns are rising up in the suburbs, as at Dalston, Islington, Camden Town, St. John's Wood, Paddington (some splendid houses in Sussex and Hyde Pk. Squares, Westbourne Gr., etc.), Chelsea, Pimlico (near Belgrave and Eaton Sqs., etc.), Battersea, S. Lambeth, Kennington, Peckham, Rotherhithe, Greenwich.

Lat. of St. Paul's 50° 30′ 48″ N., long. 5′ 48″ W.; mean temp. 50½°, ranging from an av. of 36° in Jan. to 63° July; rain, about 24½ inches; prevailing winds, SW., W., and NW., — or see GREENWICH, the average for which may be taken for London.

Old London. — The roman wall, which went round Londinium or Augusta, was 3 m. long, 22 ft. high, 8 thick, with 15 towers on it, passed from the Tower (where at T. Hill, in George St., a large piece is left), by the Minories, Aldgate, Houndsditch, Bishopsgate ch.-yard (where traces are left), St. Alphage, London Wall (opposite Sion Coll. is a large piece), Cripplegate ch.-yard (a piece), Falcon Sq., St. Botolph Aldersgate, Christ's hosp., Ludgate (a piece in St. Martin's Court), to the Fleet River, which went down New Bridge St. to the Thames. Ermine St. went out by Cripplegate to Stamford Hill, Edmonton, Royston, Godmanchester, etc.; Watling St. by Dowgate (dwr or water-gate) to Stoney St. (Southwk.), Kent St., over Shooter's Hill, etc. to Dover, — and, towards the NW., by Watling St., Oxford St., Edgware Road, Stanmore, to St. Alban's, etc. A road went E. by Old Street road, Shoreditch ch.-yard, Old Ford, to Romford, Colchester, etc., in a line with the Portway, which went W. to Staines, Silchester, etc.; Stane St. from a ford or ferry opposite York Gate stairs (where it is still shallow), by St. George's Fields (where a camp has been traced), Brixton Causeway, Streatham, etc. to Chichester, — and another from the same point to Holwood Hill and Pevensey. Pavements have been found in Bow

Lane, Bread and Broad Sts., Dyers' Hall (Dowgate Hill), Crutched Friars, St. Clements Eastcheap, Foundess' Court, Holborn Br., Leadenhall St. (near East India Ho.), Lothbury, Pancras Lane, Bow Church, Vintners' Hall (Up. Nunneries: Holywell, near St. Agnes spring, behind Norton Folgate, by Sir R. Fitzgelran, refound. 1510 by Sir T. Lovel; Holy Trinity, Minories, for nuns or minoresses of St. Clare 1293, by Edw. earl of Lancaster, — traces of it at Haydon House; St. Helen's, Bishopsgate, 1212, by W. Basing; another at CLERKENW. Friaries: austin, f. 1253 by Humph. de Bohun, now nave of the Dutch church; black-f., near Ludgate, by Q. Alianor (or Eleanor), where Hubert de Burgh and Caxton's patron Tiptoft were buried, and Ch. V. was lodged 1522 by Hen. VIII., who held the black parl. in it 1524, — it had the privilege of sanctuary, and a piece of a wall is left in Gloster Court, St. Andrew's Hill; crutched-f. (crux, a cross), at Tower Hill, 1298, by Hosier, etc.; de saeca, near Old Jewry (where a synagogue stood), by Hen. III.; dominican, f. 1242 by Hubert de Burgh, refound. 1279 at Ludgate by Archbp. Kilwarby; grey-f., near Christ's hosp., 1225, by J. Ewin, — in which Edw. I.'s and II.'s queens and Roger Mortimer were buried; white-f., near the Temple, 1241, by Rich. Gray, — was a sanctuary for debtors from Jas. I. to Wil. III., and the Alsatia of the 'Fortunes of Nigel.' A preceptory of the K. Templars was found. 1185 in Fleet St., — the round church of which, with a body b. 1240 in the pointed style, is the Temple ch.; another was at CLERKENW. Colleges: Allhallows, Barking, by Rich. III.; Corpus Christi, or St. Lawrence Pountney, in the Poultry, 1346, by Sir Jno. de Poultney; Holy Ghost, 1400, by R. Holmes; Holy Trinity, Aldersgate, found. 1377, — the hall stood in Trinity Court till 1790; St. M. Magdalen, found. 1368, close to Guildhall, reb. 1431, and used as a chapel, etc. later than 1720; Jesus Commons, at Dowgate; Lancaster, by Hen. IV., in memory of his father, 'time-honoured Lancaster;' St. Martin's-le-Grand, on site of Post Office, 1056, by Ingelricus, earl of Essex, and his brother; St. Michael's, Paternoster-Royal, 1396-1419, by Whittington, afterwards turned into almshouses, now at HIGHGATE; St. Katherine's, f. 1148, by Stephen's queen Matilda, and removed to Regent's Pk. 1826, when St. K. Docks were made (see ST. PANCRAS); one also at LAMBETH. Hospitals: St. Anthony's, Threadneedle St., by Hen. II., on site of Hall of Commerce, has a school where More and Whitgift were educated, and was the french protest. church (now in Aldersgate); St. Augustine Papey, near Bevis Marks (St. Mary Axe), f. 1430; Blessed Mary's, or St. Mary Bethlehem, in Bishopsgate, f. 1246, by Sheriff Fitzmary; Domus Conversorum (i. e. for converted Jews), f. 1233, by Hen. Hermitages, at Allhallows, London Wall, and at Q. Eleanor's or Charing Cross. Under 71. Leadenhall St., near Aldgate pump, is part of St. Michael's chapel, b. 1189. Baynard's Castle, b. by Baynard, one of the Conqueror's men, in that ward, by the river, on the site of Carron ironworks, came to the Fitzgeralds, was destroyed 1214 by John, rebuilt, and occupied by Edw. IV. at his death 1461, by Rich. III. 1483 (see Shakspeare), by the Pembrokes, etc., and burnt by the Fire; the Tower Royal in that street, near St. Andrew's, by the Wardrobe, was given as 'la Real' by Edw. III. 1331 to Q. Philippa for a wardrobe, and by Rich. III. to the Norfolks. —— The Tower, close to the river, and T. Hill, found. 1076-8 by the Conqueror (Bp. Gundulph of Rochester being the architect), and finished by W. Rufus, is 5-sided, 1050 yds. round (outside the moat, now dry or planted over), covers 12 acres, and has Hen. III.'s (1240) or the Lions' or public gate on the W. side, near Edw. IV.'s or Lion tower (which held the menagerie till 1834). Within are: Bp. Gundulph's keep or white tower, 14 ft. thick, with its four dissimilar turrets and norman chapel, where Edw. V. and his brother Rich. were smothered by Rich. III.; the Ordnance office and stores; horse armoury, b. 1826, 150 ft. by 33, with 22 knights on horseback, in armour from Edw. I., arranged by Sir S. Meyrick, — a maltese cannon, etc.; Q. Bridges. — London br.* (which is considered within the City), b. 1002 of wood, by Ethelred, reb. 1097 by Wm. Rufus after the storm of 1091, b. again 1165; b. of stone and rubble 1176-1209 (after the fire of 1136) by Peter of Colechurch (a native), on which occasion, they say, a new cut was made for the river from Rotherhithe to Lambeth; and which being altered 1759 by Dance and Sir R. Taylor, and made 48 ft. wide, was 'Old London' br. — was 930 ft. by 20 (at first), and 40 to 60 high, had 20 arches (the middle one was a drawbridge 70 ft. span), and 540 ft. water-way, with houses, gates, and a chapel on it (wherein the architect was buried) down to about 1750, and the 'Bear at the Bridge Foot' tavern till 1761. The New Br. (180 ft. above the old, which was in the line of Fish St. hill and the Monument) was b. 1825-31 by J. Rennie, with 120,000 tons of Haytor granite, and opened 1 Aug. '31, by Will. IV., — is 920 ft. by 56, and 55 high, of 5 oval arches, with a water-way of 690 ft., — the mid. arch being 152 ft. span and rising 29½, the next two 140 and rising 27½, next two 130 and rising 24½. The river level has since fallen 2 or 3 ft. at Teddington lock, — and the ice having freer motion up and down, the

chance of its being frozen up is lessened. Stones of the old br. are at Ingress Abbey, and Herne pier (?); Sir W. Temple's son, and Budgell the friend of Addison, drowned themselves while 'shooting' the arches. Southwark br., of iron, 700 ft. long (SOUTHWK.); Blackfriars br., 996 ft. by 42, and 62 high, of 9 arches (centre one 100 ft. span), b. 1760-9, by R. Mylne, as Pitt br., for 152,840*l.*, lowered and repaired 1840; Waterloo br., on a level, 1223 ft. (WATERL.); Hungerford br. (iron suspension), Westminster br., 1066 ft., the oldest (WESTMR.); Vauxhall br., 809 ft. (VAUXH.); others are, BATTERSEA, FULHAM (of wood, 786 ft.), HAMMERSMITH (suspension, 688 ft.), etc. Thames *Tunnel, made 1825-41 (one was begun near the spot 1809), by Brunel, from Rotherhithe to Wapping, was finished, after two breakings in '35 and '28, at a cost of about 614,000*l.*, is of masonry 1200 ft. long, — ft. below the river's bottom at the middle, is in the shape of a saracenic arch 22 ft. high and 37 broad, with two roadways each 16 ft. wide, and a descent of 100 in the shafts at each end. A strong 'shield,' with 36 cells in it for the miners to work in, was used in the excavation — the brick-work being built up close behind them as it advanced.

British Museum, — found. 1755-9, when Sir Hans Sloane left his MSS. and specimens of nat. hist. to the nation, is on site of Montague Ho. (b. 1687 in the 'country,' by P. Paget, for the 1st duke); was enlarged 1804, and as reb. by Smirke, 1823-50, includes a S. front, which has a grecian portico and wings, and 36 ionic pillars (opposite which statues by Westmacott, of Shakspeare, Bacon, Milton, Newton, are to be placed), a doric hall with statues of Shakspeare (by Roubiliac), Bankes (by Chantrey), and Mrs. Damer, a painted ceiling, the Portland vase (9¾ in. high), great staircase, etc.; and a quadrangle behind, 320 ft. by 240, with porticoes on each side. On W. side are rooms for the sculpture, vases, bronzes, etc., including: Sir W. Hamilton's greek and roman vases, bought 1772; egyptian antiques, etc. presented in 1801 by Geo. III. and others, among which are frescoes, sarcophagi, and the famous 'Rosetta stone' which gave Dr. Young the first key to hieroglyphics; Townley marbles (1805), the Phigaleian marbles (1815) from the temple of Apollo, representing the battles of the Amazons and Centaurs; the Elgin marbles, brought from the Parthenon (1815) by Lord Elgin, which relate the battles of Centaurs and Lapithæ, and the ceremonies of the Panathenaic procession; Ouseley's Persepolitan marbles; Payne Knight's bronzes; the Babylonian marbles; the Xanthian, brought over 1843-4, by Sir C. Fellowes, with many tombs, etc.; Dr. Layard's Nimroud marbles, including the Bull, and other winged divinities; Sir S. Canning's Bodroum marbles; Lucas's models of the Parthenon, in the Elgin room; besides the etruscan, bronze, mummy, and other rooms. On the E. side, the King's (Geo. III.) library, 300 ft. long. N. side, 2 reading-rooms 120 ft. long, and a library of 200 ft.; over which are the N. Zoological gallery (fish, reptiles, corals, sponges, shells, etc.), and Mineral gal. (fossils, saurians, etc.). NW. corner, the print and map rooms. S. side, over the hall, the Zoolog. gallery (giraffe, etc.); and ethnographical rooms, full of specimens of various countries, as the Chinese (Mr. Ley's collection), Hindoo, N. American, Mexican (Nepean's collection, etc.), and others. SE. corner, mammalia. E. side, Col. Montague and Gen. Harwicke's birds, shells, etc., and portraits of Cotton, Sloane, Birch, A. Marvell, Pope, Prior, Cromwell, Q. Eliz., Mary Q. of Scots, Dampier, M. Davis (with a horn growing from her head), and many others. Among the books are, Major Edwards', Geo. II.'s (including Cranmer's and Casaubon's books, etc.), Geo. III.'s collection of pamphlets on the Civil war, and his lib. (of 60,000 vols., given by Geo. IV.), Sir Jos. Banks's lib. of nat. hist., Dr. Birch's books, Dr. Burney and Sir J. Hawkins' musical lib., Garrick's collection of plays, Hoare's collection of italian hist., Musgrave's col. of biography, tracts on french revolutionary hist., Cracherode's books, etc.; Mr. Grenville's books (20,000 vols.), collection of newspapers since the first in 1588, etc.; — the whole increasing daily by a copy of every printed book, map, newspaper, etc. 'About 44 of Caxton's books' are here. Among the MSS., the Harleian, which are chiefly historical, include the earliest MS. Odyssey, english heraldry and topography, rolls, illuminations, etc., Chaucer's Canterbury Tales, John of France's copy of Les Moulix's 'Bible Hist.' taken at Poictiers. The Cottonian, includes saxon and early english charters, monastic registers, Bp. Eadfrith's 'Durham Book,' or illuminated latin gospels, as old as 800, K. Athelstane's latin gospel given to him 936-40 by the Emp. Otho. The royal library has MSS. collected from Rich. II. downwards, including the famous 'Codex Alexandrinus,' or most ancient version of the greek bible, in four 4to. vols. on vellum, written between 4th and 5th cent., — also many illuminations, Hen. VI. and VIII.'s psalters, Lady J. Grey and Q. Elizabeth's prayer-books. The Sloanean, chiefly travels, etc.; the Lansdowne, collected by the 1st marquis; the Arundel, english history, etc.; the Hargrave, law; the Bridgwater; besides many of a miscellaneous kind, in history, topography. Among the coins (arranged as greek, roman, anglo-saxon, english, etc.), are Cracherode's, Tyssen's anglo-saxon, Roberts's english from the Conquest, Townley's greek and roman, Banks's foreign, P. Knight's greek, Rich's and Marsden's oriental, Geo. III.'s continental. The prints and drawings are arranged according to the different schools, and include Rembrandt's, Vandyck's, etc., and a rare carving of A. Durer's in stone. Banks's and Sloane's herbariums, and those of others, in many hundred vols., are also here. It is under 48 trustees, 28 being official, 9 family; and has a principal librarian, with 6 under and 6 asst. librarians, etc. The books, etc., amount to 500,000 vols., and would fill, they say, about ten miles of shelves; full catalogues are completed to L, but only A has been published, — that in common use runs to 153 vols. Nearly 992,000 persons visited the Museum 1849, and 70,371 the reading-room.

Commerce, Docks, etc. — The Port of London reaches from the Bridge (where is 1½ to 2 fath. at low water) about 80 m. down the Thames, past the Nore (8 fath.) to its mouth within a line from N. Foreland, Kent, to the Naze, Essex (8 to 12 fath.); but ships are first boarded, and they clear out, at Gravesend. The actual port, called the Pool, is 2½ m. long to Limehouse, and is in the charge of 4 harb. masters, under the corporation, whose jurisdiction as conservators of the fisheries, soil, etc. to the highest watermark and up creeks where the tide flows, extends (about 85 m.) from above Staines down to the Crowstone below Leigh, Essex, and Yantlet creek, Kent; the Trinity Board regulate the pilotage, beacons, ballast, etc. The Upper Pool, the first bend, or 'reach,' of the river, from the Bridge to 'Wapping old stairs,' near the Tunnel and Execution Dock, is 1¼ m. long by 250 to 300 yds. broad, with 12 to 16 ft. water (or 29 to 33 at high w., enough for 800-ton ships); the Lower Pool, where about 240 colliers mostly lie in tiers, leaving a fair way of not less than 300 ft. in the stream for shipping and steamers up and down, is 1 m. long to the Regent's canal, Ratcliffe, and 280 to 320 yds. broad, with 13 to 18 ft.; Limehouse Reach thence, round Cuckold's Point, on Surrey side, to Deptford yard, is 1½ m. by 300 to 450 yrds., with 15 to 18 ft.; and Greenwich Reach, past the hosp., is 1½ m., with 11 to 18 ft. Mean depth off London docks 21·3 ft., and off Sheerness only 3·1 ft. more, in a course of 50 m. St. Katherine's Dock of 24 acres, below the Tower, on site of the par. or precinct of St. Katherine's hosp. (now at Regent's Pk.), was made 1826-8 (when 1250 houses were pulled down) by Telford, at a cost of 1,827,113*l.*, and has 11½ acres of wet docks, dock gates by Bramah, dock ho., large warehouses for 110,000 tons of goods, and a quay where Gen. Steam Nav. Comp.'s steamers lie; revenue (1846) about 230,000*l.* E. of it the London Dock * for 300 sail, made 1805, covers 90 acres (35 water), including the E. London branch dock (made 1828), the Hermitage, Middle and Lower basins, and the tobacco warehouses (for 24,000 hhds.), which cover 5 acres (with the 'Queen's Pipe,' or chimney of the kiln, where the damaged tobacco is burnt); the great dock has a jetty (made 1839) 62 ft. wide, with 1600 ft. quay room. There are warehouses and sheds for 220,000 tons of produce, besides new ones for tea (built 1844-5, for 120,000 chests), wood, etc., and large wine and spirit vaults for 60,000 pipes and hhds. beneath; and the comp.'s capital is 4 millions. Two basins at Limehouse serve for the Regent's canal and R. Lea cut. The W. India docks of 295 acres, across I. of Dogs, are at POPLAR; E. India of 32 ac. at BLACKWALL; the Commercial, or Greenland, or Surrey, and the E. Country, or timber, docks, of 39 ac. at ROTHERHITHE. What are called legal quays for small craft stretch 1464 ft. from the Bridge to W. side of Tower ditch; and there are numerous sufferance wharfs on both sides of the river. (See Omnibuses, etc.) In 1846, 2847 sail of 581,878 tons (of which 731 were under 50 t. each, 179 of 48,996 t. were built in the colonies, 92 of 49,261 t. in E. Indies, 60 of 17,376 t. in foreign ports), and 287 steamers of 55,910 t. (90 being under 50 t. each) belonged to the port; and the tonnage Inwards and Outwards, including repeated voyages, was 'coastwise' 21,101 sail of 2,670,654 and 10,936 of 757,088 tons (besides 1192 steamers of 349,317 and 1181 of 346,932 t.), — from and to 'colonies' 1603 of 490,446 and 1202 of 444,108 t. (besides 10 foreigners of 3709 t. outw.), — from and to 'foreign ports' 2792 of 449,987 and 1415 of 235,970 t. (besides 2394 foreigners of 370,380 and 2317 of 354,236 t.). Imports are reckoned to be worth 80,000,000*l.* yearly; exports (1845) 11,078,164*l.* Total customs 10,885,156*l.*; in 1268, they were 150*l.*, and 500,000*l.* in 1641. About 12,820 cargoes of coal entered 1845, averaging 270 t. per cargo. Steamers run up and down from the Bridge to Westmr. (for ½*d.*, 1*d.*, 2*d.*), Lambeth, Chelsea, Richmond, Hampton Court, Greenwich, Blackwall, Woolwich, Gravesend, Southend, Sheerness, Herne Bay, Margate, and other places on the river; also to Aberdeen, Belfast, Cork, Dublin, Dundee, Edinbro', Hull, Inverness, Newcastle, Plymo', Falmo', Waterford, Yarmo'; and abroad to Amsterdam, Antwerp, Boulogne, Bremen, Calais, Dunkirk, Hamburgh, Havre, Harlingen, and Niewe Diep (Holland), Ostend, Rotterdam, etc. Excise District comprises the City, Westminster, Southwark, etc., the pars. up to WHITECHAPEL (in the old bills of mortality as at p. 107.), with Marylebone and St. Pancras (the suburbs belong to Hertford and Rochester collections), and is divided into 12 'surveys' and 42 districts: in 1835, the total traders (26,315) included 10,152 dealers in tobacco, 7624 in wines and spirits, 6298 in tea, 244 brewers, 396 makers of tobacco, 109 of soap, 55 of brick, 6 of paper, — and 208,266*l.* was col-

Parks. — See Westmr. for St. James's, Green, and Hyde Parks; Maryleb. for Regent's Pk.; Kensington for the Gardens; Bethnal Green for Victoria Pk.; Battersea and Greenwich Pks. A park at Highbury is proposed for the boro' of Finsbury, to be called Albert Pk.

Paul's St.,—first b. 610, by Ethelbert on site, they say, of Diana's temple, was burnt 1083, reb. 1086, etc., by Bps. Maurice, St. Maria, etc., burnt again in the Great Fire 1666, and finally reb. by Wren, between 21 June 1675, and 2 Dec. 1710 (under one architect, — one mason, Strong, — one bishop, Compton), for 747,954*l.*, raised by a tax on coals. It ranks next to St. Peter's, Rome, and Delli Fiore, Florence, for size; and is of Portland stone, in the corinthian and composite styles, and shape of a cross, 500 ft. long (within) by 286 broad (between the porticoes); height 404 ft., from the ground (which is 52 ft. above high-water mark) to top of the cross, — including the wooden dome (covered with lead), which is 112 ft. diam., and with its base, lantern, etc., rises 215; W. front 100 ft. broad by 120 high, with campanile towers of 222 ft., sculptured entablature ('Conversion of St. Paul') and figures, by F. Bird; N. portico, has Mylne the architect's famous motto, 'Si monumentum requiris, circumspice' (also seen in the choir); and over the S. portico is a phœnix by Cibber, with the word 'Resurgam.' Among the mons. are: by Bacon, — Howard (the first public one put here), Johnson (inscription by Parr), Sir J. Moore, Sir W. Jones, Gen. Dundas; by Flaxman, — Reynolds, Nelson (whose remains, with Collingwood's, lie in the crypt under the cupola, in a sarcophagus which belonged to Wolsey, and a coffin made by Capt. Halliwell out of the L'Orient's mainmast) and Howe; by Rossi,—Lord Heathfield, Cornwallis, Capt. Faulkener, Rodney, Capt. Riou; by Westmacott,—Collingwood, Abercromby, Duncan; by Banks, — Capt. Burges, Capt. Westcott; by Baily, — St. Vincent, Gen. Ponsonby; by Chantrey, — Bp. Heber (kneeling), Gen. Gillespie, Gens. Gore and Skerett; also mons. of Sir W. Hoste (by Campbell), Picton (by Gahagan), Gen. Hay (by Hopper), Sir A. Cooper, Dr. Babington, — and (in the crypts) remains of the mons., saved from the Great Fire, of Dr. Donne, Sir C. Hatton, Ld. Keeper Bacon, Dean Colet, with the graves of Wren (under S. side of choir), Reynolds, Barry, Opie, West, Lawrence, Fuseli, Mylne, Rennie, Boyce. Some of G. Gibbons' carvings are in the choir, which has B. Schmydt's organ (b. 1694); Sir J. Thornhill's 8 paintings of 'Events in St. Paul's life,' are in the cupola above the whispering gallery, and outer galleries, which are reached by 200 steps: further up are the inner and outer golden galleries, made by Earl Lanesborough, — whence the view (which stretches 26 m.) for the Colosseum was sketched, and to which the Ordnance surveyors fitted a 'crow's nest' 1848, when they took more than 3000 angles, — the ball 6 ft. 2 in. diameter (wt. 5600 lbs.) and 616 steps up, — and cross, 12 ft. long, wt. 3360 lbs. In the model room, is Wren's first plan for the cathedral; the S. West tower has the clock, with an 8 ft. minute hand, wt. 75 lbs. (a weight is hung inside to keep the wind from shaking it), — and bell 10 ft. diam. wt. 44 tons, cast 1716, partly from the Westminster 'Great Tom.' Q. Anne's bronze statue, in front of the W. portico, stands on site (now opened to the public) of St. Gregory by St. Paul's chapel — and the railing east at Lamberhurst for £1,202, makes a circuit of 2292 ft., enclosing 2 ac. 0 r. 16 p. The old cathedral (which covered 3 ac. 3 r. 26 p.). was 690 ft. by 130 (or 297 thro' Bp. de Baumes's transept, b. 1120), including Bp. de St. Maria's choir (163 ft. by 88), his tower of 274 ft. (partly burnt 1561), and 8-sided chapter ho., Bp. de Wingham's cloisters 94 ft. square (1260), Earl de Lacy's lady chapel (1312), with St. Faith's church in the choir crypt, and a fine portico 200 ft. long, added by I. Jones; the middle aisle, or 'Paul's Walk,' came to be a general thoroughfare and lounge, whither lawyers resorted to receive clients, servants to seek masters, and diners-out to get invitations, whence the phrase 'to dine with duke Humphrey,' from a mon. of the good duke in the S. aisle. The churchyd. was a great place for booksellers before the Fire; on the N. side was the famous cross or pulpit (pulled down 1643), which old Father Latimer, Hooker, and others preached from, and where Jane Shore did penance; a chain was drawn across the road on the S. side at public worship.

Note. — Particulars of the Unions, from Poor Rates' Return, No. 735 (1848); of Registries, from Reg. General's Report 1847; of House room, etc., from the Weekly Bill of Mortality, 9 Mar. 1850. The Union and Registry pop. being the same, or nearly so, in all cases (except St. Olave's, which has a 'Union' pop. of 16,479 only, of which no explanation is given), it is taken for granted that their boundaries are alike, — though this is not made clear by the Returns. The annual increase of pop., found by comparing the censuses of 1831 and 41, will give the probable pop. pretty nearly for any year up to the next census (1851). Annual value of houses, etc. found by dividing the Income tax val. by the no. of houses and persons. It gives, probably, as near an approximation to the relative incomes of the inhabitants as can be at present obtained. In the the 10 poorer districts the mortality from cholera was 98 in 10,000, or double the mortality (46) in the richer districts. The general mortality from all causes was 226 in the rich, 254 in the poor, districts. The mortality from cholera was 150 in 10,000 in six districts supplied with the water of the Thames below Battersea, the house rent being 3*l.* 16*s.* per head; the mortality from cholera of 10 districts where the house-rent was less (Sr. 13*s.*), and the people probably poorer, was only 56 in 10,000, or a third of the former rate. These 10 districts were supplied with water from the New River, Lea, and Ravensbourne. The population was more dense, but the ground on which their dwellings stand is higher. The water, the elevation, and the drainage maintain their importance in every combination of the facts that can be made." Among the Water Companies, NR. means New River, EL. East London (supplied by R. Lea), K. Kent (R. Ravensbourne), C. Chelsea, L. Lambeth, S. Southwark (and Vauxhall), — supplied by R. Thames below Battersea; GJ. Grand Junction, WM. West Middlesex, — by R. Thames above Battersea; H. Hampstead, from springs there, supplies Camden and Kentish Towns: — see Water Companies. Total area, 115½ sq. mls., or about 73,920 acres, giving 16,532 persons to a mile; total houses 262,750.
